

Grenadier Famed As Hong Kong Bard

By WILLIAM STEWART

[Canadian Press War Correspondent]

MANILA, Sept. 17—(CP Cable)
—Staff Sgt. Harry McNaughton of Winnipeg made himself a name among the Allied prisoners at Samshuipo camp at Kowloon as a poet. His entry, "On the Hills of Old Hong Kong," won a poetry competition among the prisoners.

During the imprisonment the grey-haired little non-commissioned officer wrote about 50 others, reflective, philosophic and cheering. One was entitled: "You Bet I'm Coming Home."

His wife, Mrs. Isobel McNaughton, 200 Nassau st., said her husband had written both prose and poetry. His collection he hoped some day to publish. She has received two wires about him, one saying his health was good.